FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
ARTHUR SEWALL
OF MAINE.

THE ISSUE.

There is only one issue in the present campaign and that is the monetary issue. The Silver Knight states that issue clearly and tells what the result will be as follows:

"The issue of the campaign is a conflict between the money powers and the people. The ten thousand banks and trust companies under the direction of Wall and Lombard streets have practically closed their doors against their customers and demanded prompt payment of everything due them. The fact that this proceeding is destroying the business of the country is not taken into consideration by the combination. They have another, and to them more important mission to perform than to co-operate with the business community in advancing the prosperity of the country. They fear that if ordinary facilities are extended to their customers some of the money will be used by the people for campaign purposes, such as paying the expenses of speakers and circulating documents. They cannot afford to have silver literature circulated or silver debates conducted if they can prevent it. They know very well that the truth is fatal to their wicked schemes. Besides they propose to increase the poverty of the people and intensify the misery of the masses which the gold standard has already produced by absolutely cutting off every avenue by which money can be obtained for necessary purposes.

"They think by that means the hundreds of millions which they have at command will be more effective in buying votes than it otherwise would be. They realize that there is no hope of subjugating the people of the United States and making them serfs unless they can so impoverish them that they will sell their manhood cheap. They boast of the hundreds of millions behind Hanna's campaign, and hold out without a blush enormous bribes to all who will sell themselves and their country into slavery. The issue is between American manhood and the aristocrats, despots, and gold gamblers of Europe and their tony followers of America. If the voters of the American people are sold in November next it may be the last auction block used for the sale of human rights. When American liberty goes under the hammer to satisfy the love of power and greed for gold of the enemies of the human race, what other people and what other countries will make the effort and endure the sacrifices necessary to plant and nourish the tree of liberty for the benefit of mankind? If the institutions of America crumble before the cunning of monarchs and the fraud and treachery of the trusted servants of the people, what hope will remain for suffering humanity but tame submission to the degrading conditions of the serfdom of the Dark Ages?"

THE RAILROAD GAME PLAYED OUT.

Dudley Evans, Vice-President of Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express, has declared for Hanna and McKinley. A circular containing the comments of the New York Tribune and the New York Sun on Colonel Evans' defection is before us. It is said that a copy of this circular has been sent to every employe of the railroad and express companies, which of course is a plain intimation that if the recipient desires to be in favor of the companies he will follow Mr. Dudley Evans into the gold camp.

The New York Tribune, edited by Whitelaw Reid, the son-in-law of D. O. Mills, who maintains a paper in Virginia City to teach the people that it would be ruinous to the country to open the mints to silver as well as gold, states that Mr. Dudley has been a lifelong Democrat, in fact was a Colonel in the Confederate army. The Colonel believes in the financial policy of Cleveland and will go into the Republican camp to assist in maintaining that policy by electing McKinley.

What a nice little game the McKinley men in this State have been trying to play. They are using every means in their power to create the impression that the Silver party is not only controlled but owned by the railroad. They fooled many people two years ago, but it is very doubtful, even with the aid of a barrel, if they can do so again. The railroad is against Bryan, as he stands on a platform which declares against the funding bill, and, as stated, circulars embodying the opinions of two of the most pronounced McKinley papers in the country are being sent to railroad and express men giving the reasons of the gold standard men why Bryan should be defeated.

The railroad game is played out and a new scheme will have to be devised by the gold men this year to deceive the people. Bryan stands on a platform which unequivocally declares against concessions to railroads, and the railroads are unequivocally in favor of McKinley.

The assertion of our gold-standard neighbor that the railroad company favored silver, because they could buy silver at 70 cents an ounce and have it coined into dollars with which to pay their debts, was intended for deceptive purposes, but it deceived no one but those who gave it circulation.

STATESMEN AGAINST THE BAR.

It is the fashion nowadays for the gold standard men and their agents to refer to all who are in favor of the coinage of gold and silver on equal terms at the mint as anarchists. If they are right Lincoln, Garfield and Blaine were anarchists. Lincoln complimented the miners of the West as the great auxiliaries of the Union army as the product of the mines, the gold of California and the silver of Nevada, furnished the sinews of war. James A. Garfield said he disagreed with every man who is opposed to the actual legal use of both metals. He said, "I would endow the two dollars, gold and silver, with equality and make the coinage free." James G. Blaine said: "I believe the struggle now going on in this and other countries for a single gold standard would, if successful, produce widespread disaster in and throughout the commercial world. The destruction of silver as money and establishing gold as the sole unit of value must have a ruinous effect on all forms of property except those investments which yield a fixed return in money."

All those men were prominent Republican leaders and all were for the coinage of gold and silver on terms of equality at the mints at the ratio of 16 grains of silver to 1 grain of gold. Now, since Mark Hanna and the gold gamblers assumed control of the Republican party, all who advocate the principles of Lincoln, Garfield and Blaine are denounced as anarchists, and some Republicans who have a greater regard for Hanna's bar than for the opinion of those statesmen, repudiate the statesmen and worship the barrel.

CROWDS GREET BRYAN.

They Cheer Him in the Enemy's Country.

YONKERS, N. Y., August 17.—Mr. and Mrs. Bryan and Mr. Sewall left John Brecken Walker's home at Irvington this morning shortly after 7 o'clock. At Walker's request the people refrained from making a demonstration. Mr. and Mrs. Bryan, Mr. Walker and Mr. Outright, Bryan's private Secretary, took the train as far as Yonkers and there took the day boat for Poughkeepsie. The passengers on the boat cheered them. The party will arrive at Poughkeepsie shortly after noon and take the train to Tarrytown, the nearest railroad point to Upper Red Hook.

WEST POINT, N. Y., August 17.—Mr. Sewall left the party and went to New York, from where he will go to Maine on a boat.

NEWBERG, N. Y., August 17.—Two thousand people gathered at the dock here at noon today to see Mr. and Mrs. Bryan. When the boat landed flags were waved and cheers given for the distinguished Nebraskan. Just before the gang plank was hauled in Bryan appeared on the lower gangway, hat in hand, and bowed and smiled an acknowledgment of the compliment.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., August 17.—When Bryan reached Poughkeepsie four hundred people were at the dock to greet him. They followed him up the street, cheering and shouting for a speech. When he reached the depot the crowd became so persistent that Bryan finally yielded to their wishes, and standing on a box made a brief speech. Mr. and Mrs. Bryan left on the New York Central train for Tivoli, where Mrs. Perrine will meet them.

VISALIA SHOCKED.

VISALIA, Cal., August 17.—A slight earthquake shock was felt here early this morning. A very short tremor was followed in about five minutes by three distinct wave-like motions in quick succession. The direction the wave traveled seemed to be a little north of west. The time as fixed by different observers, was 3:20 to 3:30 o'clock. The weather yesterday and today is cloudy and sultry.

DROWNED WHILE BATHING.

ATHOL, Mass., August 17.—Lena Rivitt, aged 16 years, and Cora Gosnette, aged 10 years, were drowned while bathing in Pinedale pond yesterday.

English papers are rejoicing over the statement of Lord Salisbury concerning the arbitration of the Venezuelan dispute with the United States.

Charles Nelson, in a fit of jealous rage, shot and killed his wife in Chicago yesterday. He then shot his 3-year-old daughter in the head, but the bullet glanced, causing a slight wound.

The Baptists were holding services in an old frame building in Elliot county, Kentucky. The building caught fire and a part of the upper floor fell in, killing nine persons and injuring many others.

The greatest excitement prevails in Belfast, Ireland, and serious rioting has occurred. The Nationalists paraded, and demanded general amnesty of Irish political prisoners. Stone-throwing was indulged in and the police charged the rioters, wounding several of them.

The attorney of O. W. Winthrop, indicted for kidnapping and robbing James Campbell, the Hawaiian millionaire, has made a motion to set aside the indictment on the ground that the Grand Jury was irregularly drawn and that the Grand Jurors were prejudiced against Winthrop.

The Executive Committee appointed by the gold Democrats met in Chicago yesterday. An address will be issued. A convention will be held at Indianapolis September 2d. The committee claims that the movement was successful in every State except Idaho, Montana and Utah. (Who are the Nevada gold Democrats?)

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constituted condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

London as it Was in the Earliest Days of its Existence.
We first hear of London in any important sense as a city of Roman Britain. The incoming of the Saxon conquerors is followed by nearly 200 years of unbroken silence, and it is this long period which has caused some historians to assume, rather than prove, that Roman London had altogether ceased to exist. But when the light of history is again shed upon this part of the newly made England there is much to show that London had, to a large extent, preserved her independence as a place of commerce and civic organization. The Saxon settlements appear all round her, and perhaps the little village of Charing, within a mile of her walls, affords the most significant testimony to the Saxon settlements round London rather than in London.

The Saxon conquerors appear as political masters of London and introduced into her municipal life the folkmoor, which originally met in the open air on a piece of land near Paul's Cross and which is perhaps represented by the Common hall of the citizens of London of the present day; many Teutonic customs which he imbedded in the municipal usages of medieval times, many Democratic innovations in municipal institutions which appear throughout the early years of Plantagenet rule, when the "common people" over and over again asserted their right to take part in the municipal elections and transactions of the day. But both the settlements round London and the political lordship over London do not appear to have made London a Saxon city and its municipal institutions of Saxon origin. The lex mercatoria of Roman London seems never to have quite died out.

In the court of the merchants there were always professional lawyers, and perhaps the most remarkable survival of Roman institutions in Britain is the practice of the old order of sergeants at law, who assembled in the nave of the old St. Paul's cathedral, each sergeant having been allotted a special pillar in the cathedral at his appointment, where he met his clients in legal consultation, hearing the facts of the case, taking notes of the evidence or putting up and down. This is the exact parallel to the assembling of the Roman jurists at the curia clients and cannot be explained except by the theory of direct continuance of practice from Roman times.—

NOT A DIRECTORY.

Why the Hardworking Letter Carrier Loses His Temper Occasionally.

I stopped a letter carrier in Thirty-sixth street the other morning and inquired the number of the house on the other side of the street at which a personal friend of mine lived, giving the name and occupation of the person to whom the inquiry was made. I knew he lived across the way, in one of a certain block, but had forgotten the particular number, and I knew the carrier would know by the mail delivered.
"Don't you know, sir," said the carrier, who knew me, by the way, "that you ask for that which is contrary to the rules of the postoffice department to give?"

"No, I don't," I blushingly admitted.

"Well, it's true," he said. "The law recognizes the right of a citizen to a private residence, undisturbed, as long as he has committed no offense that requires such privacy to be invaded. Now if I should give your number and street to anybody who might happen to want them, the thing might cause you some annoyance."

"Why, anybody could find that out through the directory."

"They might, and they might not.
Anyhow the postoffice is not a directory."

"And didn't you know," he added as a parting shot as he went away, "that you violate the law by stopping a postman in this way while he is delivering his mail?"

No, I didn't, and for that reason these paragraphs.—New York Herald.

Groceries in Brooklyn.
Nowhere are the grocery stores thicker than in Brooklyn. On many of the main arteries of traffic one will find corner after corner occupied by a grocery store, with often one or two grocers in the middle of the same block. And they all seem to thrive. New York city boasts a more luxurious class of people than the average Brooklyn grocer supplies, but the standard of living on the average is higher in the City of Churches than elsewhere, and the grocers sell a better average quality of goods there.
Originality is not a common virtue in Brooklyn grocerydom, however, nor is it frequently met with anywhere else, for that matter, but in the City of Churches (a more appropriate name would be the City of Grocers) one is led to look for greater variety of store decoration and display of goods and in methods of doing business from the simple fact that most of the establishments are so near and clean and the goods so attractive and well displayed.—New York Merchants' Review.

Criticism.
"I'm told you were at the theater last evening. How did you like it?"
"No good."

"Well, what did you see anyhow?"
"Oh, I saw a dozen imbeciles on the stage who were trying to amuse the audience, which consisted of a dozen idiots.—Figaro.

Double Talk.
An ancient resident of Willowby, whose conduct in one of the battles of the civil war had brought him under suspicion of cowardice, was naturally indisposed to admit that he had played any but a manly part.
"I didn't run away and stay till 'twas all over; no such thing," he always affirmed. "I retreated in good order; that was all. 'Twas a time for retreating, if ever there was one, and accordingly I used my judgment and retreated."
This statement was regarded as more or less satisfactory up to the day when a military gentleman came to visit a cousin in Willowby, and in the course of a conversation held at the village store one evening heard the oft repeated explanation.
"Well, my friend," he said, looking steadily at the bore of the retreat, "you say you retreated in good order, but I should like to ask one thing. About how fast did you go?"
"Well," said the other man, surprised into telling the unadorned truth, "it 'd been at home and going after the doctor I reckon folks would have thought somebody was pretty sick."

The Last of the Falstaffs.
A correspondent writes: "Apropos of the latest Falstaff, I well remember a memorable performance of 'Henry IV' on Dec. 18, 1852, at the Princess's theater, when George Bartley—called then the last of the Falstaffs—made his farewell bow to the public after 50 years' service. 'On this very night of the week, the very date of the month 50 years ago,' he said, he had made his first appearance on the boards. I remember, too, his saying he had played Orlando to Mrs. Jordan's Rosalind. As a boy I was much struck by the transformation from the burly knight to the aristocratic looking old gentleman in evening dress as he tearfully bade his audience farewell. Charles Kean was the Hotspur, Ryder the King, Lacy the Prince, while Harley, Meadows, J. Vining, H. Saker, Miss Murray and Mrs.
Daly were in the cast. Poor Bartley died within six years afterward and was laid in St. Mary's churchyard, Oxford, when I was an undergraduate in that university."—Westminster Gazette.

She Believed It.
Somebody asked President Robert Elliott of the Central High school if judgment is sacrificed in the cultivation of memory, and he, in unhesitatingly affirming such to be the case, related a story or two at the expense of his own memory. Said he: "I cannot very much speaking of Jonah as 'What you call him' in the pulpit once, and it is another time in the course of a conviction of a woman."
"The story is a true one," said somebody else, "and I am sure."
"I am sure," said the president, "and I am sure."

ONE HEART.
I sometimes linger o'er the life Of friends I lost in other days, And still the question with me stays—"When I am gone, shall I be missed?" I doubt if others think the same, Or even wish to share my thought—That men were foolish who have sought To leave a never dying name.
When thou hast run thine earthly race, Thou wilt not "leave a world in tears," Nor will men come in after years To view thine earthly resting place.
Thy poor remains will rest as well; Thy spirit will be no less free.
Although it is not thine to be A Milton or a Raphael, Fret not thyself, but heaven thank If all the good that thou hast done May be so done that only few Need ever know thy place is blank.
Be thankful if but one true heart Shall feel for thee the moment's pain—Ere it can say, "We meet again!"— Of knowing what it is to part.
One loving heart that mayest crave, Lest all thou caredest for on earth Should seem to have no lasting worth And end forever in the grave.
One faithful heart beneath the sky,
In which to leave a seed of love,
To blossom in a world above And bear a fruit which shall not die.
—C. J. Boden in Chambers' Journal Nautical Superstitions.

In Russia much rain is considered a good omen. It is believed that the downfall washes away the evil spirits, who would otherwise be hovering in the air ready to work woe to the monarch about to place his crown on his head, the bride on the point of plighting her vows, the babe on its way to the font or whosoever might be the hero or heroine of the moment. Further, the superstitions moujik believes that each stream of water has its Rusalka, or good spirit, a lovely maiden with yellow hair flowing down her back, who spreads plenty around, but should the water fail, so that her hair dries, she will die and famine or other disaster ensue.—Philadelphia Ledger.
Language is a solemn thing. It grows out of life—out of its agonies and ecstasies, its wants and its weariness. Every language is a temple in which the soul of those who speak it is enshrined.—O.
W. Holmes.

The expenses of the queen's household are $172,500.
For your Protection.—Catarrh "Cures" or "Tonics" for Catarrh in liquid form to be taken internally, usually contain either Mercury or Iodine of Potassa, or both, which are injurious if too long taken. Catarrh is a local, not a blood disease, caused by sudden change to cold or damp weather. It starts in the nasal passages, affecting eyes, ears and throat.
Cold in the head causes excessive flow of mucus, and, if repeatedly neglected, the results of catarrh will follow, adenoids in the head, a roaring sound in the ears, bad breath, and sometimes an offensive discharge. Thoroughly should be quick to allay inflammation and heal the membrane. Ely's Cream Balm is the acknowledged cure for these troubles and contains no mercury nor any injurious drug. Price, 50 cents.
